

No Sunday Services Tomorrow, January 25

Hello Northline Church!

We have been closely monitoring the winter storm, frigid temperatures, and the forecast of snow that is supposed to hit our area early Sunday and continue all day. At this point, out of an abundance of caution, we have made the decision to CANCEL tomorrow's services.

This decision is not an easy one because we love gathering together, however, with the timing and predicted severity, we feel this is the best call for the safety of you, our volunteers, and staff.

In addition, we have been in contact with the Taylor DPW, who works very hard at clearing the streets of Taylor, and we do not anticipate them clearing the streets around the church until Monday afternoon. We wouldn't trade being in the neighborhood for anything, but it does pose some additional obstacles since the side streets are often the last ones to get cleared.

We did want to give you a heads up and let you know that we are postponing our annual business meeting that was scheduled for tomorrow. Instead, we will do it next Sunday, February 1 after the 11:00 AM service.

For those that are interested in still giving their offerings, you can also go HERE to do that.

Stay safe!

Please help spread the word to everyone! I will be sending it out on the church Facebook page as well, so if you can share that, we would appreciate it.

YOU ARE LOVED!
